Value Added Course on Scouts and Guides Online Beginners Course

Value added course on Scouts and Guides was an online beginners' course that was conducted from the 23rd of September till the 28th of September for the students of Bachelor of Education (B.Ed.). The course was conducted under the practicum course of Life Skills Education and the course coordinator was Dr. Ashwarya Srivastava, Assistant Professor from the School of Education.

Scouting/Guiding is a claim of every youth. It is the duty of adults to facilitate the romance of Scouting / Guiding for young people. In order to achieve the growth of The Bharat Scouts and Guides, there is a need for more Unit Leaders. But the leaders are unable to run the units for the simple reason that they have not enough time to undergo the Basic Course, thereby, thousands of young people are in a queue to enjoy the Scouting / Guiding. Scouting/Guiding is a noble organization.

This course gives a chance to serve the society and the nation. It also inculcates in the students the will power and courage to convert their dreams into reality. That is why this course was done as a part of Life Skills Education as it empowered them with the right tools for successfully leading their lives with the feeling of joy, fulfillment and satisfaction.

This course helped the participants in analyzing the concept of Scouts & Guides and in recognizing the need of Scouting / Guiding in present society. This Online Course was also a route map to help the adults to start and run a unit, immediately after successful completion of the Online Beginners Course.

School of Education

An online beginner course was organized for the students to acquire the basic knowledge of Scouts and Guides. They were required to register themselves on a website through the following link - <http://online.bsgindia.org/Home.aspx> and read the learning material.
